

CLAIM

What is claimed is that programs written in Cross-Barrier will run online (connected via the Internet) or offline without having to maintain separate versions of the source code.